Sharing experiences before another car swap

If you wish to taste the excitement of driving a variety of Porsche sports cars through some of the most stunning countryside in Europe without owning a collection of your own, Porsche 911 Tours opens the door to an experience you won't forget.

It's a Sunday but with a difference. Today you meet up with a new purpose, to do something unique and exciting. Morning coffee is at a meeting point where you get together with a group of people with a shared interest. You see, today you're going to be driving a collection of beautiful cars – vintage and new Porsche 911 supercars. Quite apart from the thrill of getting behind the wheel of one of the most iconic sports cars ever made, these models offer a wider range of driving experiences than you would imagine possible – from the sleek, smooth sophistication of Porsche's latest offering to the raw authenticity of an earlier age.

There are convertibles for that amazing open-top feel and touch of glamour; sporty coupes with exhilarating power and pace; automatics for smooth performance that allow you to focus on steering; manuals that give you that enthralling direct control; not to mention a variety of different engines that produce very different drives. You won't know until you get in them and feel what it's like, the speed, the acceleration, the grip on the road and the cockpit in front of you. This is driving at its best and for those who enjoy cars it's about as real as it gets – in one of the most beautiful natural settings you will find anywhere in Europe. >

THE ITINERARY

After coffee and meeting up with the team and other enthusiasts you pick your first car – the first of several models you will be taking through scenic roads that wind across the stunning Andalusian countryside, taking you through the greenery to the beautiful white villages of Casares and Gaucín, then on through the heights of the Serranía de Ronda mountain range. You'll be passing through pine forests, winding along tight bends with views of deep green valleys and mountain ridges with white villages clinging to them. The road goes up, winds through a succession of tight and also sweeping bends, then begins to slope downwards as you head back into the valleys.

Gaucín offers the first pit stop. The ice broken, you begin to compare cars and the experience with your fellow travellers, getting to know each other along the way. Besides enjoying a fantastic day out this is also a great way to meet people and make new friends, something which happens more than you'd think as you sit down to lunch at a panoramic restaurant terrace in Ronda and bond over a shared interest and experience. By now, you and your partner (if you're driving with someone) will have completed the first of a total of six swaps that will have you driving a 1992 911 (964), known as The Awakening, a 1995 911 (993) called The Beauty (and it is!) or the 1999 911 (996), nicknamed The Revolution.

These monikers reflect the unique character of each car, including the 2005

911 (997), which marks a Return to Roots, a 2011 911 (991) – The Pinnacle of Performance – a 2019 (992) known as The Masterpiece, and more. There are nine highly diverse Porsche 911s to appreciate within the collection right now, offering an experience to savour as you tour through magnificent countryside, enjoy an excellent lunch and post-road trip drinks with new friends. Porsche 911 Tours provides an exciting chance to truly get to know this iconic sports car in a way that driving a single model never could. Getting behind the wheel of an impressive collection of highly distinct ages, models, and types of 911 provides a true feeling for the evolution of these cars from the grittiness of earlier models to the technology-driven sophistication of Porsche's latest offering.
